"INFIDEL DIGGING"

At the Rev. German's Reply to the Progress articles on the Supreme Being.

This gentleman shall be treated with courtesy, for I am glad to see him step to the front so promptly, and defend, to the best of his ability; and whatever is said, I do not wish him to think there is anything personal intended. These are propositions and principles, not persons or characters, and the only pith or point in wanting to know the writer would be in making whatever capital could be made out of the followers of these dogmas, who have never heard or looked into the merits of the other side of these doctrines but very little, if at all.

What our defender says about the digging of infidel investigation, may prove too true for him, even in his life time.

As to the text he quotes in Mathew, there being no New Testament, till four hundred years after Christ, and then being compiled out of the manuscripts accepted and written by the fathers of the Athanasian creed, it would have very little weight with minds who have been digging in this infidel investigation. As it is not claimed that Christ wrote any part of it, and it being impossible to show that Mathew, Mark, Luke or John, wrote the books ascribed to them, all this has to be accepted by faith without any knowledge. That is to say, in ignorance. But if my friend will step over to his neighbor of the stone Catholic church, he might be told that if he wanted to get on that rock he had better get back into the Catholic church.

Our defender has as much difficulty, perhaps, in understanding ideas expressed in English as he has in expressing his ideas in English. With the aid of Webster he has come to the right conclusion as to the Supreme Being, viz: "Existence above all things," because all things being in Him depend on Him for existence, consequently partake of Him.

Then if they partake of Him they are parts of Him. This is plain. He extracts from my first article, but gives no reasoning to dispute any of the propositions stated, unless his exemplification at the end of his article in this paper of Aug. 9th, is meant for this purpose. This exemplification would show to his readers, that if he has succeeded in getting the image off from his mouth shelf, he has not got him out of his head. If he wishes to leave this as his idea of God, his readers will dispose of it to my satisfaction.

If he had commenced to quote a little further back in my article, he would have been badly covered up, and it might have troubled him to have found a path out on to his exemplification, viz: "God is a spirit that fills immensity of space." It is difficult to get this spirit into person and make a machinist out of him. If he really believes that God is a spirit, &c, who fills, &c., I suggest he commence there in his defense next time.

It would seem from his article in this paper, that it was impossible for his weak mind to have a thought off and away from this planet, say nothing of reasoning in immensity of space. But after his extract he says, "Now what does all this mean? Does it mean that God is above law, matter and intelligence. He says no, and I say no, too. God can be above these only in the sense that the boundless whole is above a portion of the whole. And I farther say that God being the universe and the universe being God, no law can be changed, no matter created out of nothing, and no intelligence expressed only through forms. "as we behold them in nature as His creatures." A little further down in his article, he says, "in plain language it means nature is God and God is himself nature." Very well, let us see. We hear of the works of nature, as nature works then, Nature is a force. This force works by unchangable laws that combine, decompose, organize and disorganize, every part of matter that can come within the range of our knowledge, and if he can show his readers how this force can work without matter, law and intelligence, he may make his God outside of nature appear. Please do this and keep out of your fabled cosmogany.

If there is any personal being organized that should remain permanently in that state, it would be an anomaly without a parallel in the universe; and if it was possible to gain audience with any of the celestial beings now would they not pass themselves off for Jove, Jehovah, God, or the Holy Ghost, but would plainly tell that the universe caused them as it has you and I. Again, he says "But this monster being admixture of matter, law and intelligence, and whatever belongs to the visible and invisible world is neither a spirit or supreme." "It may be called a being because the parts of which it is composed exist." Well, that is a good start. To admit that it "may be called a being!" And now you will admit that the being has a nature, that nature a force, that force the all pervading spirit, which puts forth all forms, and these forms live and move and have their being in this spirit; and dare you tell your readers this spirit is not surpeme? In admitting the Being visible, how can you escape the Supreme invisible? And here we have the Supreme Being.

In calling this being a monster and denying its spirit, are you not a blasphemer? and from your exemplification, are you not an idolator? Who are the heathen?

He says this is a very old doctrine. True, the doctrine of the oneness of the boundless God, as opposed to the many Gods of mythology. This doctrine came to the men he names in their examination of the heavens. As I turn to the volume that tells of these men, I read "Thales of Metetus, in Asia Minor, who had studied the astronomy of the Egyptians, is supposed to have predicted the famous eclipse which occurred 585 years B. C. and which is recorded by Herodotus.

Massillon, Oct 26th 1871.

MR. FROST: Your correspondent Mr. Grant from Canton in yesterday's Independent publicly questions the veracity of my statement in my Reply to infidelity regarding Socrates, Alcibiades II and Plato, and tries thereby to throw suspicion on all the rest. Proud like Goliah of old with sword, spear and shield, and great literary power and philosophic majesty he enters the contest to fight against the children of Israel and to holy his Infidel brethren Progress and Company, in their already failing attacks. With disdaining looks he lights on my little person, being but a youth and ruddy, and in simular language like Goliah cries out: 'Am I a dog that thou comest to me with staves?' And: 'Revealed religion is unfortunate indeed if it has to depend upon such defenders.' But if the great man Saul and his army stand back, whether sorely afraid we pretend not to say these little fellows like David must enter the contest. Like David we come not in our own strength but in the name of truth and the Lord of hosts, the God of the armies of Israel whom Grant, Progress & Co. have defied and say 1 Samuel XVII Chap., 46 verse: 'This day will the Lord deliver thee into mine hand and I will smite thee, and take thine head from thee (namly the philosophic head) and I will give the carcasses of the host of the Philistines this day unto the fowls of the air, and to the wild beasts of the earth, that all the earth may know there is a God in Israel.' Like David we have thrown such stones of arguments at Progress & Co. that the wicked concern seems already to have been smashed, and so bitter were they to Mr. Grant that he lost all appetite for a refutation, and his only hope was in this sword of literary fame, to finish me and my articles with a few strokes. This his own sword we will now take up to lay his majesty prostrate to the ground, so that the citizens of Canton get the priviledge to burry the dead carcass of his philosophic pretentions and his literary fame, and Progress & Co. of Massillon have a chance to show their sympathy to the bereaved fraternity every where on the fall of their general. But now to the contest.

In regard to the quotation of Socrates, he says: 'In this instance he is so bo'd as to refer specifically to 'Socrates page 51'. And proceeds, 'Now when we recur to the fact that Socrates left no writings, and never according to the testimony of his contemporaries, committed any thing to writing, but confined himself strictly to oral teachings, one is at lose in what term fitly to characterize this pretented citation.' Mr Grant seems intirely ignorant of the fact that the actions and teachings of Socrates were reported and published to the world by three of his scholars who state they had them from his own lips, and who remained with him to his last hour. Their names are Plato Cebes the Theban, and Xenophon from the city of Athens. They called these their reports and publications after Socrates' own name in order to distinguish them from work of their own origin. Plato's was called, 'Apol Socrates,' Cebes' was named 'Tabulam Socraticams,' and Xenophons is known as 'Memorablia of Socrates. Our quotation is from the work, 'Apol Socrates' Now as Mr. Grant seems intirely ignorant of these facts, and yet has to use his own words against me, the amazing effrontery, to pass his judgment thereupon, he stands exposed in a double feature as an ignorant and an audacious man. We will furnish the very book to him and the public. In regard to my quotation of Alcibiades II he says: 'The next purports to be Alcibiades II and is not a whit less remarkable for its impudent recklessness. The only Alcibiades, who makes any figure in history was a rich profligate at Athens, whom Socrates tried in vain to reform. Another of this name is mentioned of whom we know nothing except that he was the grand father of this noterious debauchee. Neither of them ever wrote anything that we know of, or their contemporaries alluded to. It could not have been any conscientous scruples, that restrained the author of this article from refering to a page in this instance as he does in the previous fictitious reference to Socrates.

Firstly he denies that this book, Alcibiades II exists at all, but cautiously adds, that we know of. Mr. Grant of Canton the great oracle of wisdom did not get to hear of such a book, therefore he concludes no such book could exist. What logic! But in spite of his ignorance it really exists and we will offer to furnish him with the book, in order to show him his poor knowledge of ancient history which is a bad thing in a man of philosophic and historical pretentions. Secondly he objects so much to the possibility of such a debauchee to be a philosopher, that he thinks his mere statement of the man's character would gain for him the judgment of the uninformed reader. We allow Mr Lempriere one of his Infidel brethern to light up his ignorance on that question, for he says in his classic dictionary, as published by W E Dean, New York, under the name of Alcibiades: 'His character has been cleared from the asperstons of malevolence by the writings of Thucydides, Timaeus and Theopompus and he is known to us, as a hero, who to the principles of the debauchee added the intelligence and sagacity of a statesman, the cool interpidity of the general, and the humanity of the philosopher.' And if for instance Alcibiades had been a debauchee in early life, possible as it can be possible, that Mr. Grant like Voltaire calls upon the name of Jesus for mercy before he dies. Cicero in his orations Libri III which we can also furnish, refers on page 173, and on page 374 to Alcibiades as one of the great philosophers of Greece. But not only is there a book Alcibiades II but also one called Alcibiades I. Both these books we can furnish in one volume. To convince not only Mr. Grant but also the whole public of Grants great shameful ignorance herein, we not only furnish books referred to in my quotations, but I have also laid a catalogue of Mr E Steiger of New York city into the bookstore of Mr. E Kachler of our city, in which Platos Phaedon is marked in gold at 85 cts. Apol Socrates at 40cts and Alcibiades I and II at 80 cts, so that all can send for the books, by Mr. Grant so ignorantly denied. Now as Mr. Kachler has offered to send for and supply I hope that Mr. Grant and Progress & Co., especially make applications, to enlighten their materialistic divinities better in philosophic and historical matters, and avoid being exposed in their ignorance, so shamefully again. In regard to my quotation from Plato's Phaedon, he did not here deny the ignorance of the book, but was led by his ignorance in the foregoing books, and also by his ignorance of the contents of Phaedon itself to the audacious assertions: 'But I venture to assert, that there is no such passage to be found there or elsewhere in the writings of Plato.' Now in order to expose him fully to the terror of his followers, and to prove his audacious statement: 'All these citations are pure inventions of the author of the article or of some one else equally ignorant and unscrupulous.' A perfect falsehood. I hereby publicly challenge him to come with all his friends to see my proof: for I will prove by the authors' books from which my quotations have been taken, that every statement and translation is correct. I hereby publicly ask Mr. Grant and Progress & Co., to name immediately the day of investigation so that I can wait on them and be able to invite the public to it also. If Mr. Grant slides the offer, which is certainly fair, his assertion must be branded as a willful falsehood. What regards Mr. Grants judgment about my reasoning the above exposure of ignorance together with his eternity of matter on his brain will account for it. He ought to read my exposure of the nonsense of materialism in my first four articles, for it cannot bear the the light of investigation. The reader can now see that the proud philosopher is brought to the ground. Now as Goliah has fallen, and Progress & Co. have taken to their heels, or only now and then under the disguise of a Reader venture forth from their hiding place to take a peep at my long articles and make a babylike cry about them, we must call Mr. Frost to advertise for help, for we are in real earnest to go on to finish what was recklessly commenced, and forced upon us. Now Mr. Frost is this to the point? If not you need not publish it. If you stop the publication of my articles, they will be published in pamphlet form for distribution among the public.

P. I. BUEHL.

Prof. E. Loomis, of Yale College, twenty years ago reported, after a thorough examination of the meteorological records of London and the United States, against the common belief in the occurence at the time of the autumnal equinox. The London series extended from 1744 to 1843. His conclusion was as follows: 'From all these observations, I infer that the popular notion of an unusual fall of rain either in Old England or in New England about the time of the autumal equinox is wholly unfounded, and is akin to those superstitions which make some particular day 'observation day' for the entire month, or make the fall of rain dependent on the annual meeting of the Quakers.' Mr. W. C. Redfield, the distinguished meteorologist, also records that there is nothing in the traditional notion of a special connection between the ebuinox and the storms of that period.

A white haired old negro preacher in New Orleans thus addressed one of the meetings of the dissatisfied colored folks recently: 'What are you grumbling about? Yer all better off dan ye eber spected to be. Did yer tink when Massa Linknum guv ye yer freedom he was gwine to buy tickets in the Louisiana state lottery for ye besides.'

JUST A QUESTION OR TWO.

Of the innumerable questions which printers are called upon to answer the following are the most sensible:

Do you print both sides of your paper at once?

How long does it take to make a newspaper?

S'pose you write everything you print, don't you?

Why are these boxes of different sizes, and how do you know where to find a certain letter?

Can't you print a picture of anything you want to?—I should think you could. Why can't you?

(After printing some horse bills for a man not long ago, he found fault with them because the 'cut' was not just like his horse; On another occasion, a gentlemen came to us with the information the he left his horse in front of the office and he wanted a picture of it taken and some bills printed.)

If you print 100 bills for $3 I suppose you will let me have four for 12 cents?

I should think it would be just fun to be an editor—you don't do anything but sit down and read newspapers and stories all day!

Do you throw your type away after you have printed upon it once?

You don't care if I take a handful of this type, do you?

It cant be very hard work to set type all day, is it now?

Would it do any harm if I should easily pick it up again—you are a printer.

Can't I help you print something?

I wish you would print my name for me; it wouldn't be much trouble to print off just one name.

What is this for? what do you do with that? what makes that look so funny? what are you going to do now? what for? what makes you keep so still? You don't care if a fellow just talks, do you?

By the time a man goes through with this list of questions his company becomes so monotonous that he can not fail to perceive its effects upon his listeners, and he walks off with the impression that we have treated him unkindly.

OUR PUBLIC MEN.

The fortunes of our presidents and great orators—how much they made and saved:

Jefferson died comparatively poor. Indeed, if congress had not purchased his library, and given five times its value, he would with difficulty have kept the wolf from the door.

Madison saved money and was comparatively rich. To add to his fortune, however, or rather that of his widow, congress purchased his manuscript papers and paid $30,800 for them.

James Monroe, the sixth president, died in New York so poor that his remains found a resting place through the charity of friends.

John Quincy Adams left $150,000, the result of industry prudence and inheritance. He was a man of method and economy.

Martin Van Buren, died very rich. Throughout his political life he looked out for his interest. It is not believed that he ever spent thirty shillings in politics. His party shook the bush and he caught the bird.

Daniel Webster squandered a million in his life, the product of his professional and political speculations. He died leaving property to his children and his debts to his friends. The former sold for less than $20,000, the latter exceeding $250,000.

Henry Clay left a handsome estate. It probably exceeded $100,000. He was a prudent manager and scrupulously honest man in all transactions

James K. Polk left about $150,000; $50,000 of which he saved from his presidency of four years.

John Tyler left $50,000. Before he reached the presidency he was a bankrupt. In office he husbanded his means and married a rich wife.

Miliard Filmore is a wealthy man and keeps his money in a strong box.

Franklin Pierce saved some $40,000 from his term of office.

HINTS TO TRAVELERS.

Some one thus gives counsel: Don't wear your best bonnet, or people will think you have no better opportunity to display it. Plain straw is in better taste. Light colored gloves are an abomination for traveling custom. Pack your jewelry in your trunk instead of hanging it about your person, and don't judge your fellow travelers by the splendor of their dress or the number of yards in their mantillas. Disagreeable mistakes have been made in this way.

Don't deem it useless to be polite to the spectacled old lady or the pale young girl. They may not belong to the butterfly ranks, but they are none the less capable of appreciating that kind of etiquette that comes from the heart.

Don't talk and laugh loudly and boisterously. Your private affairs may be very engrossing to yourself, but they can hardly be expected to interest the public.

Don't load yourselves with parasols, baskets, fans, parcels, shawls, reticules and books. The less 'hand baggage' you can get along with the better.

Tennyson is not a heathen though he is wedded to his Idyls.

WHAT EDITORS SHOULD BE.

In the Phrenological Journal for July appears an article with the caption A Rule for Editors,—What they should be, in which the writer strongly urges that those who have the editorial management of the press should be men of the largest brains and the greatest knowledge. The proposition is advanced at the outset that "the strength of a people may always be accurately measured by the character of their editors," and from this basis the article proceeds to demonstrate that the mind being the power which controls the movements, forces and efforts of the entire human machinery, to the extent to which we cultivate mind and develop thought the people grow in strength and expand all their forces. Hence the necessity for none but the best minds as teachers. So important does this appear to the writer in the Journal, that he declares, "It is a subject of national interest and importance enough to command the attention of governments—not in a sense of presuribing censorship for the press, but only in the sense of securing, through the operation of the law, none but the best talent for editorial positions. It should, in every country, be a privilege of license, such is its importance, and no man should be allowed to fill the position unless he could first pass the scrutinizing criticism of the most learned boards of judges." Of course there is much in all this that is absurd from a practical point of view, but so far as it is an estimate of the importance of the editorial office it may be regarded as not excessive. We make the following extracts from the article.

"The commercial character of the press in our own country, and to a certain extent in every country, does not comprehend the value of the rule which we have here laid down. In the rule upon which the press of this country, particularly, is established, intelligence is held to be only a commercial commodity, and therefore is not shaped of the highest quality, but of that ordinary material which is supposed to suit the millions of the masses best. Indeed, looking to its aims and objects, and to its primal value as an element and instrument of strength, it should not be treated as a commercial commodity at all, but rather as something valuable as life itself.

"Whatever is noble in a people must be developed through their intelligence; and a literature, whether political or social, which panders, as does ours too much, to the vitiated tastes of a people, will enervate their minds and weaken their bodies to a degree of which the common mind has very little conception. This dangerous use of intelligence shows that it ought not to be held as a commercial commodity; to be fashioned according to the tastes of the largest number who make a demand for it, but that it should rather (according to some system which will support such a use) be used as an improving instrumentality of the minds of the masses, who by our press are now underrated, and are furnished with a quality of mental food below what their present mental appetites really call for; this, too, under a wrong commercial system in literature which has gone upon the principle of giving the people nothing higher than the range of their own minds, when there is in every human mind an aspiration for something above its individual status."

HOW THE STAR SPANGLED BANNER WAS COMPOSED.

It was during the war of 1812 and Admiral Cockburn, who commanded the British fleet, had attempted the attack on the city of Baltimore and the bombardment of Fort McHenry, Sept. 13, 1814. Frances Key, the author of the poem and a true patriot, was a prisoner on the fleet, which was anchored two miles from Fort McHenry, the main defense of the city. Through the terrific cannonading of that midnight fight, while the sky was lit up with the fiery courses of the flying bombs, he could watch all the enemy's preparations, and he knew the danger that foreboded. As the struggle ceased upon the common, and he looked through the dim twilight for the fate of his country, his heart sick with fear and doubt, could he help the grand outburst of that first verse? and then as through the mists of the deep the banner loomed dimly in the morning sun's first rays, and he exclaimed,

"'Tis the star spangled banner! oh long may it wave
O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave!"

it was prayer and praise all in one; and there has never been anything like it since.

When Frances Key came back to his comrades once more, he brought with him the precious poem, which was read and re-read by the boys in camp until the entire division seemed electrified by its pathetic eloquence. That national song was too grand to be lost, so one of the boys named Fred Durang, began a search for a tune that would fit the words, and turning over leaf after leaf of an old volume of flute music, he came across one called Anacreon in Heaven, which proved an exact fit, and spreading the news along the camp, there rang out for the first time the song of the Star Spangled Banner. From that time it was caught up by every voice and carried from camp to camp until it became the universal song, an ingentive to greater courage and braver deeds. And when peace was declared, and the soldiers scattered to their homes, it was carried to thousands or firesides as the most precious relict of the war of 1812.

Francis Key now sleeps in the cemetery at Fredericktown, but his song lives and will live so long as—

"The star spangled banner still waves
O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave."

SAM OPPENHEIMER.—The N. Y. Sun of last Thursday devotes near two columns to this young man, who has attained an unfortunate fame in certain business transactions. The Sun heads the statement, The Prince of Scoundrels—a pretty rough beginging, and goes on to detail many items of interest concerning the subject of animadversion. Twenty-eight creditors in the shape of individuals and firms claim that Sam has defrauded them out of about $117,000. When they found out he was such a rascal, with no little difficulty they had him caught, arrested and put in Ludlow street jail, where he has been living for near two years. The following extracts from the Sun reporter's article will inform our readers something about the doings of Sam and others The swindled creditors authorize the reporters to make these statements.

"In order to set themselves right before the public they have placed at the disposal of the Sun reporter all the affidavits and court proceedings in his case. From these the following extraordinary story has been gathered: In Massillon, Ohio, in 1869 there existed the firm of M. Oppenheimer & Sons, dealers in clothing. The firm consisted of Moses Oppenheimer, the father, Levi, Julius and Samuel Oppenheimer, the sons. Samuel, the subject of this sketch, occupied a desk in the office of George A. Davis & Co, 44 Park Place in this city, as buyer.

Toward the middle of that year the Oppenheimers concocted a scheme for swindling, which for boldness of extent has probably never been surpassed. Samuel was chosen to put the plan into practice. He began operations by purchasing goods right and left, as much as their firm's credit would permit, on sixty day's time. These goods were shipped to Massillon and converted into cash as soon as possible, no matter at what sacrifice. When half the period was up he started on another purchasing tour, and bought in everything which the New York merchants would sell him on 30 day's time. These goods followed the others. In return for both lots he gave the notes of the firm, taking care that the sixty and thirty day notes should mature about the same time—during the month of November, 1869.

In the meantime the Oppenheimers had printed checks on the Union National Bank of Massillon Ohio, printed with M. Oppenheimer & Sons in large letters on scroll work neatly engraved along the side. When November came, Mr. Samuel set to work energetically to carry the second part of the swindle into effect. The Oppenheimers had credit with 28 wholesale clothing houses in this city, from all of whom goods had been purchased on 30 to 60 days time. As each note matured, Samuel filled out a check on the Union National Bank of Massillon, for a much larger sum than the face of the note called for. This he took to his creditor, paid the note with it and received the balance in a check from the firm, which he immediately cashed. He also borrowed all the money he could, giving checks on the Union National Bank of Massillon, as security. He worked like a Trojan during November. In three days he collected between $32,000 and $33,000 in cash."

Following these statements are the names of the defrauded men above referred to. The writer continues—

"To this list must be added the Union National Bank of Massillon, O. from which the account of M. Oppenheimer & Sons had been previously overdrawn to the tune of $17,900.

"Mr. Samuel Oppenheimer calculated to a nicety the day on which the first of his checks would be returned dishonored from Massillon. His calculation said Dec. 2d. On Dec. 1st he took no rest but borrowed from early morn until late at night. On Dec. 2d he had disappeared. About the same time the firm of M. Oppenheimer & Sons closed their business in Massillon, Ohio, and opened auction stores, for the disposal of the remainder of the goods on hand, in Ft. Wayne, and Lafayette, Ind., and Ann Arbor, Mich.

"Then the dishonored checks began to pour in, and New York howled. Detectives were sent to Ohio, Indiana, and Michigan on the track of the firm, and others lay low for Samuel about this city. The former were successful in having the firm declared bankrupt, and in seizing what assets were left, (which were subsequently sold for $11,000), but it was not until a wonderful deal of ingenuity had been wasted that the arch swindler was captured. He played the detectives all sorts of games. He gave little boys money to go to Philadelphia, and Hudson, and other places, and post impudent letters to his creditors, offering to compromise by refunding a small percentage, while he was all the time hiding in a four story tenement house, 160 Spring st., in this city, under an assumed name."

In December, 1869, Sam was caught and placed in prison, where he has been ever since. Judge Barnard has been proposing to have a general jail delivery—that is, a release of a considerable number of men confined for debt, among whom Sam is placed. If released for debt this culprit will be liable to prosecution for forgery, or something akin to it—at least for procuring money under false pretenses.

A number of extracts are given from Sam's diary. From this we learn that he is a native of Leiderudenbach, in Hesse Cassel, born in April, 1843. His father was a wealthy Jewish cattle dealer. His mother is dead. In 1849 his father emigrated to America.

It is a satisfactorily ascertained fact that Sam has money, and a good big pile of it, somewhere, but with all the ingenuity of detectives they have not been able to trace it up.

His diary indicates that he is a man of considerable intelligence in some respects, great shrewdness, and reveals unscrupulous proclivities for rascality. While here Sam was a lively, jolly fellow, and appeared to practice on the motto get all you can. The father and sons appeared to prosper here for a number of years, until they commenced breaking up and paying fifty cents on the dollar, which was done twice at least. Then they went down rapidly. They have all left this place.

In his diary Sam complains of being robbed or badly cheated, losing some $50,000 thereby. One of these robbers, he charges, was a brother who defrauded him out of $10,000, of whom he says "damn him, I hate him, and will to my dying day." He states that he found but two men in his employ who did not cheat him. Such a man, of course would find the world filled with rascals. He seems naturally to see other people as they all see him --all dishonest. Two of Sam's brothers are in business somewhere west of this.

The N. Y. Sun of Saturday gives some account of Judge Barnard's jail delivery. These men have been in prison, some of them a year and others longer, as debtors. Quite a number of them were released on conditions adapted to their varied cases. But Sam was not one of that fortunate class, for the judge says he has $79,000 stowed away. Under such circumstances the probability is he will continue to reside in the Ludlow residence there is no knowing how long. His great rascalities are not calculated to excite sympathy in his favor, and his misanthropic spirit even repels many who would take pity on him. He finds the way of the transgressor is hard. Pity some of the millionaire rascals are not in jail with Sam.

Rev. E. P. Powell in an essay on the "Outsiders," and How to Reach Them, in the last number of the Advance says some plain things. In alluding to the class above referred to the writer says, "What changes of method' what changes of spirit, perhaps, have we to accept before we shall reach the intelligent masses? I raise no question about the inebriated mob, or the unthinking rabble—they are better cared for to day than the thinking, intelligent population that composes the real mass of the American people. Without question the majority of the well to do, sound business men, the capitalists, the lawyers, the doctors, the artists, and largely the mechanics, are skeptical. They are to an extent attendants of our churches out of courtesy; but few, at least of the professional classes are members. Church membership does not increase in proportion to the increase of population." Again—"I believe that the majority of these men are honest, and that our very first step to success is the acknowledgment of their honesty." Further on—"Some ministers are relying on argument and a logical presentation of systematic theology. Some rely on denunciation. Almost all look for most of their acquisitions to an annual dash or a bold charge called revival. Unfortunately the revival system is fit only for a forlorn hope—not a regular hope." And the writer proceeds to criticise the course pursued by the churches, candidly admitting their inadequacy to meet the wants of the intelligent masses first referred to. He hits the trouble pretty squarely when he says, "Nearly every one sets himself to tinkering creeds, and the plain, practical, noble human work of rescuing the lost is neglected." It looks very much that way to outsiders. What cares an intelligent man or woman to hear sectism, in the shape even of what is called orthodoxy, promulgated. Such care little or nothing for theological dogmas and theories—they want to hear something practical, then they would go to church more.

Among the lecturers promised here by the Y M. C. A's of this place is Olive Logan. She is represented as an accomplished lecturer, and we hope will be successful in bringing together a full house. Other names are given in this connection with some prospect of securing the attedance of the celebrities whom those names indicate. Once get fairly started and the project ought to go on and be a success.

The Chicago relief fund is said to exceed eleven millions of dollars. Certainly enough to alleviate the wants of the many sufferers from the great fire. The business of that place is apidly resuming its former activity.

Among the floating reports the other day is one stating that Brigham Young has left Utah, not to return. Ther seems to be trouble among the Mormons since the courts have taken to punishing some of their chiefs for too much marrying. That might be done out of Utah more than it is.

Notwithstanding the lack of rain many of the grain fields present an appearance of luxurious green, though it is not as far advanced as if there had been more rain. Heavy dews have measurably supplied rains, springs, wells and streams are having a dry time in some localities.

Fun coming with Morris' Minstrels. Call and hear and see them. And expect to do some laughing.

THE AMERICAN

Button-Hole, Overseaming

—AND—

Complete Sewing Machine.

The first and only Button-hole and Sewmachine combined that has made its advent in this or any other country.

☞The following reasons are given why this is the best

Family Machine to Purchase:

1. Because it will do everything that any machine can do, sewing from the finest to the coarsest material, hemming, filling, cording, braiding, binding, gathering and sewing on at the same time, ruffling, quilting, &c., better than any other machine.

2. Because the tensions are more easily adjusted than any other machine.

3. Because it can make a beautiful button hole, making as fine a pearl as by hand.

4. Because it will embroider over the edge, making a neat and beautiful border on any garment.

5. Because it will make a beautiful eyelet hole

6. Because it can do overhand seaming, by which sheets, pillow cases, and the like are sewed over and over.

7. Because you can quickly raise or lower the feed to adapt it to thick or thin cloth.

8. Because you have a short deep bobbin by which the thread is constantly drawn from the center; the tension is consequently even and does not break the thread.

9. Because the presser foot turns back; that the cloth can be easily removed after being sewed.

10. Because the best mechanics pronounce it the best finished and made on the best principle of any machine manufactured.

11. Because it has a better shuttle than any other machine.

12. Because it runs easier and quieter than any other heavy machine.

13. Because it is two machines in one—a button hole working and sewing machine combined.

It is to last a lifetime, and therefore one is wanted that will do the most work, and do it the best, and this machine can do several kinds of sewing not done on any other machine, besides doing every kind that all others can do.

The American or Plain Sewing Machine

Is a beautiful family and light manufacturing machine, possessing all the superior qualities of the combined machine, except making button holes and overseaming. In all other respects the principal of construction is the same.

It is a curiosity to visit the white lead works at Alliance. One who has never seen such a manufactory can form no idea of the machinery and appliances necessary to transform the heavy, dull lead we see into that beautiful, clean white paint in such common use. Great pieces of the raw material are to be seen—these are cut into thin shavings by machinery—these thin pieces are submited to numerous chemical processes which completely change them. Among the last ordeals through which this lead passes, seem to be the grinding by mill stones— half a dozen in a row, all whirling with great velocity. Mr. Lawson is the manager of the works. Not expecting to purchase the concern we did not find out all its mysteries.

Mt Vernon, Ills, April 2d, 1871.

Messrs. J N Harris & Cincinnati, O.

Gentlemen—I heard one of my customers speak in such high terms of Allen's Lung Balsam to-day, that I thought I would write And the substance of his statement. He says his mother, who is now sixty years of age, has suffered with consumption for several years, and has been under the care of all our best physicians, but never received any permanent benefit. then she resorted to almost every kind of cough and lung balsam that could be procured for her, but all of no avail. She still grew worse, until she was confined to her bed; and when she was seized with a paroxysm of coughing she would lose the power of respiration, and they were compelled to resort to various means to restore breathing; and while she coughed so hard she could not expectorate anything and the family and friends had given up all hopes of her recovery. Hereon noticed the advertisement of Allen's Lung Balsam in the Christian Advocate, and they thought they would procure and try it. They commenced giving her the balsam at 5 p m., as directed, a dose every hour until midnight; then she took another spell of coughing, and expectorated a mouthful of dark yellow matter, which was something she had not been able to do for some time. They continued to give her the balsam until morning, and then she began to expectorate freely, and within three hours she had expectorated three pints of mucus matter, which gave her immediate relief, and since that time she has continued to improve. She now sits up all day, and can walk about the house and take considerable out-door exercise. Her son bought more of the balsam to-day, and he is recommending it very highly to every one. Your, respectfully,

A C JOHNSON, Druggist.

Was there ever greater proof of merit than the case this letter refers to?

MARY LOCKWOOD.

ONE MILLION OF LIVES SAVED!

It is one of the remarkable facts of this remarkable age, not merely that so many persons are victims of dyspepia or indigestion, but its willing victims. Now we would not be understood to say that any one regards dyspepsia with favor, or feels disposed to rank it among the luxuries of life. Far from it. Those who have experienced its torments would scout such an idea. All dread it, and would gladly dispense with its unpleasant familiarities. There are diseases more acute and painful, and which more frequently prove fatal; but none, the effects of which are more distressing to the body. If there is a wretched being in the world it is

A CONFIRMED DYSPEPTIC.

But it not our intention to discant on the horrors of dyspepsia. To describe them truthfully is simply an impossibility. We have said that dyspepsia is perhaps the most universal of human diseases. This is emphatically the case in the United States. Whether this general prevalence is due to the character of the food, the method of its preparation, or the hasty manner in which it is usually swallowed, is not our province to explain. The great fact with which we are called to deal is this:

DYSPEPSIA PREVAILS

almost universally.

Nearly every other person you meet is a victim, an apparently willing one; for were this not the case, why so many sufferers, when a certain, speedy and safe remedy is within the reach of all who desire to avail themselves of it? But says a dyspeptic, What is this remedy? to which we reply. This great alleviator of human suffering is almost as widely known as the English language. This acknowledged panacea is none other than

HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS.

Would you know more of the merits of this wonderful medicine than can be learned from the experience of others? Try it yourself, and when it has failed to fulfil the assurance of its efficacy given by the proprietor, then abandon faith in it.

LET IT BE REMEMBERED

first of all, that Hoofland's German Bitters is not a rum beverage.

They are not alcoholic in any sense of the term. They are composed entirely of the pure juice or vital principle of roots. The extracts from which they are compounded are prepared by one of the ablest German chemists. The objections which hold with so much force against preparations of this class, namely—that a desire for intoxicating drinks is stimulated by their use, are not valid in case of the German Bitters. Their effects can be in all cases of the biliary system. Hoofland's German Bitters stand without an equal, acting promptly and vigorously on the liver they remove its torpidity and cure healthful secretion of the bile. They impart vigor and strength to the entire system, causing the patient to feel like another being—in fact, giving him a new lease of life.

THEY PURIFY THE BLOOD, cleansing the vital fluid of all hurtful impurities and supplanting them with the elements of genuine healthfulness. In a word, there is scarcely a disease in which they cannot be safely and beneficially employed; but in the generally prevalent distressing and dreaded disease, dyspepsia,

THEY STAND UNRIVALED.

Now, there are certain classes of persons to whom extreme bitters are not only unpalatable, but who find it impossible to take them without positive discomfort. For such has been prepared. It is intended for use where a slight alcoholic stimulant is required. This tonic contains all the ingredients of the bitters, but so flavored as to remove the extreme bitterness.

HOOFLAND'S TONIC

acts with almost marvelous effect. It not only stimulates the flagging and wasting energies, but invigorates and permanently strengthens its action upon the liver and stomach thorough, perhaps less prompt than the Bitters, when the same quality is taken is not the less certain. Indigestion, biliousness, depression of nervous prostration, yield readily to its potent influence. It gives strength to weakness, throws dependency to the winds, and starts the restored invalid upon a new and gladsome career But Dr. Hoofland's benefactions to the human race are not confined to his celebrated or his invaluable Tonic. He has prepared another medicine, which is rapidly winning its way to popular favor because of its intrinsic merits. This is a perfect substitute for mercury, without any of mercury's evil qualities.

GERMAN BITTERS,

These wonderful pills, which are intended to act upon the liver, are mainly composed of Podophyllin, or the VITAL PRINCIPLE OF MANDRAKE ROOT.

Now we desire the reader to distinctly understand that this extract of the Mandrake is many times more powerful than the Mandrake itself. It is the medical virtues of this health giving plant in a perfectly pure and highly concentrated form. Hence it is that two of the Podophyllin pills constitute a full dose, while any where six to eight or a handful of other preparations of the Mandrake are required. The Podophyllin stimulating its functions and causing it to make its biliary secretions in regular and proper quantities. The injurious results which invariably follow the use of mercury is entirely avoided by their use.

Possessing desirable qualities, the Podophyllin becomes invaluable as a

FAMILY MEDICINE

No household should be without them. They are perfectly safe, require but two for an ordinary dose are prompt and efficient in action, and when used in connection with Dr. Hoofland's German Bitters, or Tonic, may be regarded as certain specifics in all cases of liver complaint dyspepsia, or any of the disorders to which the system is ordinarily subject. The act upon the stomach and bowels, carrying off improper obstructions, while the Bitters or Tonic purify the blood.

One bottle in such cases will convince the most incredulous of their curative effect.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions or Sores, cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul, and your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure and the health of the system will follow.

PIN, TAPE, and other WORMS, lurking in the system of so many thousands are effectually destroyed and removed. For full directions, read carefully the circular around each bottle, printed in four languages—English, German, French and Spanish.

LOCAL MATTERS.

In accordance with the request of a circular from the Executive Committee of the Young Men's Christian Associations of the United States and British Provinces, the Young Men's Christian Association of Massillon will hold a religious service in the Presbyterian church, on Sunday afternoon, Nov. 12, 1871, at three o'clock, for the blessing of God upon the efforts put forth by these localities throughout the United States and British Provinces, and upon all efforts for the salvation of young men. All persons are cordially invited

Took a brief jaunt to the pleasant town of Ravanna the other day. It is not as bustling and much of a business place as some other towns, yet it is solid substantial place, having quite a number of large and well built stores, hotels, shops and public buildings; but the finest block has just been put up by Mertz & Riddle. It consists of several large three story brick houses erected for the purpose of manufacturing carriages. Last August these men were almost ensirely burnt out, but their energy and enterprise has in less than three months put up among the best buildings of the place. Bro Harris publisher of the Democrat Press, seems to be prospering well, but neighbor Hall had bad luck with his Democrat about that time, having pied a page of locals and advertisments probably set in nonpareil or agate—possibly something larger than minion It is pretty certain that Job never had a form of nonpareil pied.

David Tatum, of Cleveland, will address the people of Youngstown, on the subject of Temperance, on Saturday evening the 11th inst. in the Stone School House. The speaker, a minister in the society of Friends, has had many years experience in mission labor through the United States, visiting prisons and saloons, the fallen and depraved and hundreds of families ruined by intemperance. Some interesting incidents of suffering will be related. The public are respectfully invited to attend.

The traveler will find a model resting place at the Arlington House, Alliance, Mr. Kerr, proprietor. Quietly and orderly are all the arrangements carried on, and guests are well cared for, their wants supplied with the best the market affords. Visitors will see no drunken or disorderly people there—their presence is forbidden.

It is said that if a puff of air were to be blown into a vein of an animal, death would instantaneously follow, because circulation would be stopped. The blood makes the entire circuit of the human body every seven minutes, and whenever this circulation is impeded or any of its channels are clogged by impurities which ought to be carried off, disease follows—fever or a disorder of liver or kidneys, or scrofula, or dyspepsia. To get at and remove the source of difficulty use the old and infallible blood purifier, Dr Walker's California Vinegar Bitters.—436-4t

No further business appearing the council adjourned.

A number of the publishers of this district, pursuant to agreement, met in the Mayor's office at Alliance on last Thursday. The convention was a pleasant one, and an occasion for business. A number of questions were taken up and acted upon with promptness. The proceedings will give the details. It seemed to be the aim of each and all to co-operate, not selfishly for the interests of the craft as against others, but for all to work together, and for us especially to perform our part in elevating the intelligence and promoting the physical welfare of those to whom we look for patronage. There is no need for collision—harmony and unity should mark the spirit of all concerned. A number of the offices in the district were not represented. We hope to see them present at the next gathering in the pleasant month of May, 1872, and in the pleasant town of Warren, Trumbull county. Certainly they will realize that it is good to be there.

The Y M C Association of this place will hold a public meeting at the Presbyterian church on next Sunday at 3 p m. In consequence of this meeting it is thought best to defer holding an afternoon temperance meeting on the same day, as has been proposed. Efforts will be made to have a temperance lecture on Sunday the 19th inst.

Mr. Fletcher, of this place expects soon to have for sale a lot of the neatest and most beautifully finished book slates—something superior to any previous devise of that kind—which can't help but please everybody A white slate to be used with lead pencil is something needed by every business man.

Rev. Buehl takes the liberty of guessing who the writer of the article signed Canton is and then goes for the supposed author. We made no objections to his guess work—so he inferred he might be right, and pitche in at reckless length and with tremendous verbosity. We are too obtuse to see any point, but print the piece at a venture, supposing nobody will be seriously hurt thereby.

It is the famous Singer Sewing Machine which has been taking the red ribbon at the fairs all over the country this fall. Every day it becomes more and more popular, and every day its sales grow larger; all of which speaks volumes in behalf of its merits When you buy a sewing machine remember these facts and act accordingly.

UTERINE DISEASES.

By this term we understand those diseases peculiar to females such as obstructions, irregularities, cessations, derangements, immoderations, and disorders which are so common, and which exercise such a powerful influence in the destruction of female health.

It is all important that the physician should be able to discriminate closely between these affections, as some of them are directly opposite in their nature, and each requires a specific treatment different from the other, a mistake in which would be dangerous and perhaps fatal.

That the urine in these disorders is of a peculiar character and quality, every physician of experience in this way knows, and can at once perceive the difference between these excesses and deficiencies.

And in treating these complaints especially, he must ever keep in mind these pathological differences, and prescribe such remedies as will check up the excessive or restore the diminished secretions; remove the morbid conditions and reinvigorate the whole system.

The good effects of this kind of treatment will be observed in a very short time, and as a general thing the patient recovers entirely in a few weeks.

We have had hundreds of cases where the good effects of our remidies were observable in a few weeks. The dull, languid expression of the eyes began to disappear, the dark-colored circle beneath them gradually lessened, the skin becomes more natural, the complexion improved, the appetite returned the strength increased, the palpitation [illegible] weariousness wore off, the shortness of breath became less troublesome, the puffed face was no longer observed, and the disposition became less irritable and more cheerful, and the general health entirely restored.

Many of these changes are among the first signs of improvement after commencing the treatment.

Afflicted women, brighten your hopes and try our remedies.

Our daily practical observations enable us to determine the precise condition of the new system in every case, and to prescribe the appropriate remedy in every disease

PROCLAMATION BY THE PRESIDENT.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28.

By the President of the United States—A Proclamation:

The process of the season has again enabled the husbandman to gather the fruits of successful toil. Industry has been generally well rewarded. We are at peace with all nations; tranquility, with a few exceptions, prevails at home. Within the past year we have in the main been free from the ills that have elsewhere affected our kind. If some of us have had calamities, they should be the occasion for sympathy with the sufferers of resignation on their part to the will of the Most High, of rejoicing to many who have been more favored. I therefore recommend that Thursday, the 30th day of November, the people meet at their respective places of worship, to make the usual acknowledgments to Almighty God, for the blessings He conferred upon them, in their merciful exemption from evils; invoke his protection and kindness for their less fortunate brethren, whom in His wisdom He deemed it best to chastise. In the faith whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the state to be affixed.

Done at the city of Washington, this 28th day of October, in the year of our Lord 1871, and of the independence of the United States the 96th.

U. S. GRANT.

By order of the president.
HAMILTON FISH, Sec. of State.

It is said that Tweed, the biggist thief in New York, has offered Nast $100,000 to quit making caricatures of him and his co workers But he can't get off in that way, for Nast repudiates the bribe and goes on with his pictures. This fact shows that, although Tweed has the hide of a rhinoceros it can be penetrated with the sharp arrows of truth in the shape of pictorials. The last Harper's Weekly has several very expressive cartoons at the expense of the ring.

From some cause bro. McGregor did not attend the editorial convention at Alliance the other day. No doubt he had sufficient reason for absence, but without him it seemed as if the old man was out. Bro Hartzell was there part of the time, and narrowly escaped a serious accident. He was somewhat injured in being thrown from a carriage very unexpectedly. Bro. Mosgrove talks of starting a new paper at Columbiana and a firm is about to begin one at Leetonia—which will add two more to the ten or eleven papers now in Columbiana county.

A transgressor was taken before the mayor yesterday for missusing his family. He was calaboosed.

PRICE, $5.50.

The American Washer saves Money, Time, and Drudgery.

The Fatigue of Washing Day no longer dreaded, but Economy, Efficiency, and Clean Clothing sure.

In calling public attention to this little machine, a few of the invaluable qualities, (not possessed by any other washing machine yet invented,) are here enumerated.

It is the smallest, most compact, most portable, most simple in construction, most easily operated. A child ten years old, with a few hours practice, can thoroughly comprehend and effectually use it. There is no adjusting, no screws to annoy, no delay in adapting. It is always ready for use! It is a perfect little wonder! It is a miniature giant, doing more work and of a better quality, than the most elaborate and costly. One half of the labor is fully saved by its use, and the clothes will last one half longer than by the old plan of the rub-board. It will wash the largest blanket. Three shirts at a time, washing thoroughly! In a word, the ablution of any fabric, from a quilt to a lace curtain or cambric handkerchief, are equally within the capacity of the Little Gem! It can be fastened to any tub and taken off at will.

No matter how deep rooted a prejudice may exist against Washing Machines, the moment this little machine is seen to perform its wonders, all doubts of its cleansing efficacy and utility are banished, and the doubter and detractor at once become fast friends of the machine.

We have testimonials without end, setting forth its numerous advantages over all others, and from hundreds who have thrown aside the unwieldy, useless machines, which have signally failed to accomplish the object promised in prominent and loud sounding advertisements.

It is as perfect for washing as a wringer is for wringing. The price another paramount inducement to purchasers, has been placed so low that it is within the reach of every housekeeper, and there is no article of domestic economy that will repay the small investment so soon.

All that is asked for this great labor saver, is a fair trial. We guarantee each machine to do its work perfectly. Sole agents for the United States.

A MIRACLE.

Mr. Samuel Bell, of W E Schmertz & Co., wholesale boot and shoe Manufacturers, 31 Fifth Avenue, Pittsburgh, Pa, has been afflicted with chronic rheumatism for thirty years, from his right hid to his foot having to use a crutch and a cane, and at times so painful as to utterly incapacitate him from tending to his business. Having tried every remedy known, without effect, except Gilliland's Pain Killer, he was finally induced to try it. A second application enabled him to lay aside his crutch, and a third effected a permanent cure. Mr. Bell, as a popular and well known citizen, is a living monument of the efficacy of that great medical discovery Gilliland's Pain Killer. The afflicted should ask their grocer or druggist for it, and try its power. Mr. Gilliland, we understand, wants a respectible agent in every town and country for it. The principal office is at 78 Third Avenue, Pittsburgh Pa.

Be Guided by What you Know

"There is an old proverb which says, 'Experience is the safest guide.' To this guide the sick and ailing naturally turn when casting about for the means of relief. They enquire what a medicine has done for others before they adopt it themselves. Of all the remedies and preventives in use, Hostetters's Stomach Bitters meets the test most triumphantly, and hence its immense popularity ang great sales. The sufferer from indigestion is sure to find some one among his friends who has been cured of this ailment by the famous stomachic. The victim of fever and ague, liver complaint, constipation, nervous prostration, or general debility, has only to make an inquiry in the

Dr. J. LONG.

Eclectic Physician,

Has located himself at Massillon, O., for the treatment of Female & Chronic Diseases.

Office east of the Park, second door of Mr. Falke's new building.

All consultations and examinations of patients made free of charge.

Dr. Long examines and explains your disease without asking any questions. If he understands your case you know it, and cannot be deceived. If he cannot tell your disease, and how you feel without asking questions he does not consider himself competent to treat your case. This is the criterion to go by, and patients should not be satisfied with any other. This is the only direct and positive evidence of my ability as a scientific physician, and by this standard I am willing to be judged.

A proper diagnosis of local disease, without constitutional symptoms, that is, not affecting the system generally, must depend upon the judgment of both patient and physician.

Give Dr. Long a call, and satisfy yourselves whether he understands your cases sufficiently well to treat them successfully.

Dr. Long may be consulted in the German and English languages. Address letters,

DR. WHITTIER

Continues to treat all private diseases, syphillis in all its forms, gonorrhœa, gleet, stricture, orchitis, and all urinary diseases, and the effects of mercury are completely eradicated; spermatorrhea or seminal weakness and impotency, resulting from self abuse or other causes, and which produce some of the following effects, as blotches, bodily weakness, indigestion, consumption, aversion to society, unmanliness, dread of future events, loss of memory, indolence, nocturnal emissions, and finally so prostrating the ex ual system as to render marriage uns tory, and therefore imprudent, are nently cured.

It is self evident that the physician who confines himself exclusively to the study of a certain class of diseases and treats thousands of cases every year must acquire a greater skill in that speciality than one in general practice.

The establishment, comprising ten ample rooms, is central. When it is not convenient to visit the city, the doctor's opinion can be obtained by giving a written statement of the case, and medicines can be sent by mail or express.

The doctor publishes a medical pamphlet of fifty pages that gives a full exposition of venereal and private diseases that can be had free at office or by mail, in sealed envelope, for two stamps. Every sentence contains instruction to the afflicted, and enabling them to determine the precise nature of their complaints.
